

I cant wait to get outside a take some photos!! As soon as my isolation period is over.

These photos will contextualise Emotional AI in this strange pandemic era.

Placing my poster in settings which we can all recognise as very present day places the technology at the forefront of the moment.

It would be interesting to impose my poster in a political landscape as a commentary on life as we know it now.

Perhaps it can comment on what we understand to be the new normal.
